Future Ready Schools® (FRS)

All4Ed's Future Ready Schools® (FRS) network is the largest of its kind, uniting thoughtful leaders from districts and schools in a shared vision for innovation, excellence, and equity across our nation. We seek to empower educational leaders to provide a superior, technology-enriched education that is both effective and sustainable. We achieve this by:

- Enhancing leadership capabilities through comprehensive training, networking, and inspirational activities.
- Facilitating connections between our network members and pioneering implementation of complex education challenges.
- Promoting policies and practices that fundamentally transform educational systems and outcomes.
- Bridging research and practical application with models, case studies, robust frameworks, and resources designed to foster learner-centered environments.

Through these efforts, All4Ed's FRS network is reshaping the educational landscape, ensuring that schools are equipped to prepare students for the demands and opportunities of the future.

Digital Learning Day (DLDay) Network

Digital Learning Day (DLDay), held annually on the second Thursday in February, is a virtual celebration that spotlights the remarkable contributions of educators and organizations across the nation through extensive social media outreach. DLDay underscores the significance of digital learning tools, emphasizing the importance of genuine connections and personalized learning experiences enhanced by technology for every student.

This campaign starts in the fall, inviting participants to plan DLDay activities or events. The highlight is the LIVE broadcast on DLDay that showcases the exceptional initiatives undertaken by districts nationwide, furthering our mission of digital inclusion and educational excellence for all students, no matter their zip code.

As a corporate sponsor, you are supporting the advancement of policy and practice that empowers innovation in education across the nation.

All4Ed's Federal and State Policy Leadership

The hallmark of All4Ed's policy and government relations work is our ability to take an idea, translate it into legislation, regulations, or guidance, advocate for its adoption, and support its implementation to maximize results for the nation's young people. With an emphasis on equity for each student, All4Ed's federal policy efforts delve deeply into resource equity, college and career pathways, assessments and accountability, and closing the digital divide. All4Ed's state policy work builds on our mission of expanding equitable educational opportunities for all students.. All4Ed collaborates with policymakers, advocates, and practitioners to provide policies needed in classrooms and legislatures nationwide through our State Policy Center. It currently includes model legislation and resources focused on college and career pathways, digital equity, and next-generation accountability, but is a living repository that will expand every year to meet the needs of those working on behalf of students.
